IT'S NATIONAL POETRY MONTH

The City of Cape Canaveral is proud to announce Luke Azoulay-Haron as the city's new Poet Laureate. Appointed by City Council at its January meeting, at just 18 years old, Azoulay-Haron is the youngest known adult poet laureate in Florida's history.

As Poet Laureate, Azoulay-Haron will host Sea, Space, Speak, the CAPE Center's monthly poetry open mic night, and present original works at city events and community gatherings.

Azoulay-Haron's work has been published in the Star Tribune, one of the ten most-read periodicals in the country and is a matriculating student at Eastern College Florida State.

Sea, Space, Speak takes place every fourth Wednesday of every month from 7:00 PM to 8:30 PM at the CAPE Center. These events are free and open to participants aged 16 and up. This month's Poetry Night will be on April 22.

Her Cruel Winter Frost - by Chrissy DeWitte

Something so simple...

serene...

Nature...

her breath

brings death.

From green to black

she does attack

then returns in time...

the sun

to shine and

she shows...

her wind blows

at her discretion...

progression?

fate?

She shows

it is not too late

She commands the sun

the rain!

and removes

the pain

of her action...

retraction?

Oh such a moody one

she freezes

then appeases

And just in time

her "Nature" shows

her apology

green!

She is seen...

lovely again.

Skull & Books VR in Cocoa Beach is starting a new monthly series to highlight local authors.

They host Local Author Night on the second Friday of each month, 5:30 to 7:30 pm, where authors can set up a signing, host a Q&A, or engage with readers however they prefer.

How it works:

- You bring your books and connect with readers
- They provide the space and promote the event through our social media

channels

- They ask that authors also help promote the event to their audience
- Book sales would follow a 70/30 split (author/store)

Below are available dates:

- Friday, May 8
- Friday, June 12
- Friday, July 10
